Great Forces on Way to Saloniki to Aid Forces Now Battering Away at Bulgars—Russ Gain on Portion of Riga Front—French Win Another Victory—Serbs Contest Every Foot of Way on All Fronts.

By Associated Press.

London, October 25.—Each succeeding telegram from the Balkans tells of the increasing gravity of the Serbians' positions.

To the north the Bulgarian and Austro-German forces are within 35 miles of joining hands.

To the south half of Serbian Macedonia is in possession of the Bulgarians, if the report of their capture of Uskup are correct.

This would mean that the invaders have in their hands nearly the means of communication.

The only favorable news from the standpoint of the entente powers, is found in the optimistic reports concerning the Franco-Serbian offensive near Krivolak, where the Bulgarians are said to be giving way before a vigorous flank attack.

Reports from various sources say that the entente powers propose to land a tremendous contingent at Saloniki.

Paris, October 25.—An important success by the French troops in the Champagne district is announced by the French War Office this afternoon.

The announcement says:

"In spite of a fierce resistance French troops, following a preparatory artillery fire, occupied an important position known as La Courtilin.

"The losses of the Germans are described as serious and the French took 200 prisoners."

GERMAN AGENT ADMITS GUILT

By Associated Press.

New York, October 25.—Robert Fay, a Lieutenant of the 16th Saxony Infantry, admitted today after an all night grilling that he came here last April, through an arrangement with the German secret service, for the purpose of blowing up or delaying steamers sailing from this country with arms and ammunition for the allies.

Fay declared, however, that while he had been here he had acted independently of the German Embassy.

HONOR FOR MACCABEES' BENEFACTOR.

Little did Supreme Commander Bina M. West realize twenty-three years ago, when she organized the Woman's Benefit association of the Macabees, that she would one day be "first citizen" of Port Huron, Mich. That time has come, and Oct. 22 was the day set aside by the city as a holiday to honor her while she laid the cornerstone of the new $200,000 home of the Macabees. The photograph shows her breaking ground for the building.

SIX DEAD, MANY MISSING IN LARGE FACTORY FIRE

Pittsburg, October 25.—Five girls and one man, employed in the factory of the Union Paper Box Company on the north side, are known to be dead, eight girls are badly injured and a number of others missing, as a result of a fire here today.

One fireman was injured and it is feared will die, and another fireman was seriously hurt.

The bodies of the girls were recovered in the ruins of the three-story building.

A salesman for a stove company discovered the fire and gave the alarm. He rescued eight girls by catching one after another as they jumped from a window.

A number of other girls were rescued in the same manner. Other girls sprang into the street and seven of them were taken to a hospital badly hurt.

Twenty-six girls and six men were at work when the fire broke out, according to the manager of the factory.

VENICE IS ATTACKED
BY TEUTONIC AIRMEN

By Associated Press.

Rome, via Paris, October 25.—Teutonic aeroplanes last night made two separate attacks with incendiary bombs on the city of Venice, according to an official announcement given out here today.

One of the bombs fell upon the roof of a church and crushed the ceiling, which was ornamented with sculpture.

Another missile fell upon the piazza of the cathedral of St. Mark and in front of the ducal palace.

The statement says:

"Enemy aeroplanes made two attacks, separated by a short interval, upon Venice last night, throwing many bombs, some of which were incendiary. The first attack was about 10 p. m."

The incendiary bomb which fell upon the piazza of the cathedral of St. Mark, in front of the ducal palace, did no damage.

Five other bombs fell either in canals or upon places in the city where only slight damage was produced.

The aeroplanes returned at about 11 p. m. One bomb fell in the court of an alms house and set fire to piles of wood.

Two other bombs exploded without doing any damage. No one was hurt.

Daylight revealed that there were possibly thirty or forty men in two attacking parties which attempted to ambush the soldiers.

BANDITS ESCAPE

By Associated Press.

Brownsville, Texas, October 25.—Bandits, who attacked an entrenched United States Infantry camp with in 6 miles of Brownsville yesterday, escaped capture by more than 1,000 troops, rangers and deputies who started in pursuit of them in half an hour after the fight.

ANOTHER PLOTTER ARRESTED

By Associated Press.

Steubenville, O., October 25.—William Jennings Bryan, here today for his first speech in his week's campaign of Ohio to advocate state wide prohibition, devoted much of his time urging the defeat of the so-called stability amendment which would prevent a state wide vote often than once in six years on constitutional amendments twice defeated since 1912.

"The so-called stability amendment should be called the 'immunity amendment,'" he said, "since its purpose, insofar as relates to special privilege interests, is to secure immunity for them by giving them a guarantee against disturbance no matter what they do."

Detectives said they expected Daeche to prove a valuable witness, as he had already given them much important information. He said he came to this country from Germany in 1912 and was a graduate of Cologne University.

EYE-WITNESS TELLS STORY OF MASSACRE

By Associated Press.

London, October 25.—A long account by an eyewitness of the Armenian atrocities is telegraphed by the Reuters correspondent with the Dardanelles fleet.

It covers travels about various parts of Armenia and tells how the bishop of Sivas was shot with shoes of red hot iron by a village blacksmith, at the order of the Turks; how men of Tokat were tied together in groups of four and taken out 100 at a time, for massacre, and says women were tied to the tails of ox carts, mothers bayoneted before the eyes of their children and girls distributed as chattels among officials.

BULGARS SEIZE RAILWAY CENTER

Uskub, Servian City, Taken After Hot Fight.

IS AN IMPORTANT POINT

Bulgarian Army Places Itself Across the Route by Which Allied Reinforcements For the Serbs Would Travel—Von Hindenburg Captures Iloukst and Several Thousand Russian Soldiers.

London, Oct. 25.—After severe fighting the Bulgarian army succeeded in capturing Uskub, an important junction on the Salonica-Nish railway. The Bulgarian army has thus placed itself across the route by which the allies' reinforcements for the Serbs would travel. The Austro-Germans, in the north, have begun a more vigorous offensive and have crossed the Danube near Ossova. This brings much nearer the linking up of the armies of the Germanic allies and those of Bulgaria and the opening of the way through Bulgaria to Constantinople.

Uskub, which was taken only after a desperate struggle, is 100 miles northwest of Salonica. It is an important trade center and a busy industrial town, leather dyeing and weaving industries and the manufacture of metallic articles being prominently represented. The population numbers about 300,000.

Success is not being achieved without heavy losses, as the Serbian veterans, well entrenched in their mountains, are offering stubborn resistance and are making the invaders pay a big price for every mile of country invaded.

French troops are fighting beside the Serbs in the southeastern section, and reports from Athens says that other steps are being taken by the allies to help their small partner. Additional troops are being landed at Salonica. Bulgarian ports in the Aegean and Black seas are being bombarded and it is believed that men and munitions will be sent to Serbia by still another route. Without the active co-operation of Greece and Roumania, however, the allies, it is feared here, will not be able to do much for some weeks.

The Russian troops who have landed at Dromes, Courland, have, according to Berlin, re-embarked. If this is so, it is probable that the landing was intended as a diversion, in the hope of drawing German troops from the Riga and Dvinsk regions, where very heavy fighting is still in progress.

Hindenburg's Drive.

There is no news of Field Marshal Von Hindenburg's drive toward the Dvina, southeast of Riga, but northeast of Dvinsk he has made another attempt to reach the river and claims to have forced the Russians from their positions, inflicting great losses on them and taking nearly 3,000 prisoners. Iloukst, which has figured prominently in all the recent communiques, has been captured by the Germans.

The persistence with which the Germans are attacking in this region shows the importance they attach to the capture of Dvinsk and Riga and the line of the Dvina river before winter sets in.

BETTER BUTTER LATEST SLOGAN

New York, Oct. 25.—"Give us better butter!" This is the slogan of a nationwide campaign that has been started by the National Housewives' league, through its branches, to secure a guarantee for the average American family table reasonably pure butter. A call will be issued in a few days to the hundreds of thousands of housewives on league membership rolls to take part in the crusade. Mrs. Julian Heath, the national president, says she hopes that the fight which will be waged will result in the awakening of congress to the realization of the necessity of federal inspection of creameries.

ONE KILLED TWO INJURED

Columbus, Oct. 25.—Louis Satt, thirty, is dead; Max H. Rieser, forty-two, a merchant, is lying in a serious condition in a local hospital with a number of injuries, and Malcolm Rieser, sixteen, was hurt slightly, when the roadster in which they were riding was struck by a southbound Scioto Valley traction car at Hooker's Crossing, six miles north of Lancaster. All reside in this city. Rieser is a Main street merchant. Satt, a salesman, sustained a fractured skull and was injured internally. He died almost instantly.

ITALIAN VICTORY CLAIMED

Rome, Oct. 25.—Goritz, the key to the entire campaign on the Isonzo has fallen before the combined artillery attacks of the Italians, according to news brought to Rome by staff officers who have just returned from field headquarters. These officers further report that the results of the Italian offensive began several days ago on the entire front from the Alps to the sea are much more important than has been announced in the official reports from General Cadorna, chief of staff, which have been given out by the war office here.

Official information on the extent of the Italian gains in Tyrol and on the Isonzo are, they say, withheld until the positions conquered by the Italian troops are consolidated and their advance is made a permanent victory. According to these officers Goritz, the Austrian stronghold on the Isonzo, fell three days ago. It is twenty-two miles by rail from Trieste.

The official statement issued by the Italian war office makes no mention of the fall of Goritz, but speaks of heavy fighting in that vicinity in which the Italians were victorious.

SAY NEW YORK WON BY SUFFS

New York, Oct. 25.—Suffrage for women may win at the polls on Nov. 2, as most women think it will, or it may lose, as some men predict; but, whether it wins or loses, the time is not far off, in the opinion of the women who organized and successfully carried through the great suffrage parade in Fifth avenue last Saturday, when naughty men will have to divide his ballot rights with aspiring women. The leaders of the suffrage movement saw in Saturday's demonstration a certain indication that victory for the cause is close at hand. They were so encouraged by the vast array of marching women and by the extraordinary interest displayed by the street crowds that even the possibility of defeat one week from tomorrow doesn't alarm them. Suffrage leaders refuse to believe that the Republican and

Simplicity in Dress

The Ohio Federation of Women's Clubs meeting at Toledo last week as one of the grand climaxes of a splendid meeting adopted this resolution:

"Simplicity constitutes the best standards of dress."

While that is not the whole of the resolution adopted, it is the gist of it.

Of course the ladies present, realizing the great truth announced in the resolution, pledged themselves to abide by its decree and hereafter, until the next annual meeting at least, we may expect to see large numbers of influential ladies garbed in simple attire.

Each of the delegates present at the Toledo gathering must be presumed to be a leader in her community and the effect for good cannot help being widespread when these several ladies get back home and inaugurate the new style.

While the resolution does not state as much, according to reports, we presume that simplicity in dress which is the "best standard" relates both to lines and cost, otherwise the husbands would not benefit nearly so much as a first impression would indicate.

Husbands, many of them, have learned that it is necessary to secure the service of the most talented and highly priced artists and to supply them with materials of the highest grade and finest texture, in order that a garment of simple lines will "hang" correctly on some figures.

They remember too, the old days when the simple dress made the beauty of his best girl, before she became his wife, but more pronounced. They would like to return to the old costumes, especially if the cost reduction is proportionate to the reduction in ruffles and fancy cuts. But friend husband, now that he is accustomed to the ruffles and "fixin's" might object, in view of the high cost of living, to a return to the simple styles if it meant an increase in cost.

The McDermott Law

The people of Ohio who believe that as long as we have saloons within the boundaries of the state they should be regulated more strictly than under the old regime, should vote against the so-called McDermott law in the referendum election on November second.

The Greenland law, the present license law, was enacted to make effective the constitutional amendment adopted by the people of Ohio in the elections of three years ago.

The present license law has demonstrated its efficiency to the entire satisfaction of everyone who has given the question any serious consideration.

Under that law over three thousand saloons which had before its adoption been operating in Ohio, were compelled to quit business. For the first time in the history of the state Sunday closing laws became effective and the saloons were closed in every city and town of the state on Sunday, without turmoil or bloodshed or even undue excitement, simply because the law made possible the enforcement of law.

The McDermott law is weak in the very particulars in which the present law is strong. It places the responsibility for law enforcement entirely with the several communities and brings back the old conditions which made easy the violation of Sunday closing laws where the sentiment of the community favored the open saloon on Sunday.

In addition to that the McDermott law is objectionable because it makes of the election of county officers a wet and dry fight. Men will be elected to office or defeated more on account of their views on the question of how saloons should be conducted than on account of their fitness for office.

No temperance man should vote for the McDermott license law. It opens wide the door of opportunity to the law violator and injects the saloon question in local campaigns whether the county be wet or dry territory.

The present license law does not take away any right which believers in temperance had before its enactment. It is but an added regulation enabling those who believe in the enforcement of law, especially the Sunday closing law, to compel obedience to state laws in territory where saloons exist.

The McDermott law is inefficient to bring about law enforcement in wet territory and means a return to the old order of disobedience.

Poetry For Today

TO THE WOODS.

Above the drifts of fading gold
The fallen leaves have spread;
The sumac, brazen as of old.
Now rears its blazing head.

Gay autumn is, if you should ask.

Delivering the goods,

But we're chained to a demon task—

We can't take to the woods.

With elms and oak trees add.

The alders, quite a quakerish set.

Wear rather somber hoods.

Yes, autumn's making good—but yet

We can't take to the woods.

Across the fields deserted quite,

Bereaved and wan and sere.

The whistle of our friend, Bob

White,

Comes blue and sweet and clear.

The memory of greater days

These lesser days now floods—

The teeming, gleaming, dreaming days

When we took to the woods.

NEW YORK'S LAND BARONS.

Thirteen Families Own One-fifteenth of Manhattan Island.

The society to lower rents and reduce taxes on homes in New York has issued a statement asserting that thirteen families own one-fifteenth of the assessed land valuation of Manhattan, a total of $205,404,875 for the thirteen families, or $15,800,000 a family. The total number of families in the borough is placed at 560,000. These figures do not include the land owned by the same families in other boroughs of the city.

The thirteen landowning families as mentioned in the society statement are:

The Astors, Vanderbilts, Rhinelander, O. B. Potter properties, J. P. Morgan, E. H. Van Ingen, Wendels, Goeltz, Ehrets, Gerrys, Charles F. Hoffman estate, William R. H. Martin and Eugene Hoffman.

The society finds that nearly a sixteenth of the assessed valuation of Manhattan is owned by two corporations, Sailors' Snug Harbor and Trinity corporation, the former holding land assessed at $10,493,500 and buildings assessed at $5,769,500 and the latter holding land assessed at $8,987,300 and buildings assessed at $3,524,700. Bronze Gold Reflector.

Government tests are reported to have shown that a new type of mirror now used in the largest searchlight in service in the United States navy is manifestly superior to any reflecting medium heretofore developed for this purpose.

Instead of being made of silver surfaced glass, the parabolic consists of a bronze casting electroplated with gold. This form of construction seems to have a number of important points in favor of it.

Silver is always subjected to corrosion, while gold is not. Furthermore, the optical properties of gold reflecting surfaces are superior to those of silver in that the gold rays penetrate thick, foggy atmospheres much more efficiently than does light reflected by a silver mirror.

American Buttons Now.

The situation in the button industry shows how American manufacturers can meet war conditions. A year ago there were predictions of a button famine, and a little later the scarcity actually occurred. At that time most of our buttons were imported. But American manufacturers got to work, and now we are selling buttons to some of the nations that used to sell them to us. As for ourselves, we can get all the buttons we want here at home.

Biggest Turbine In World.

The largest single unit turbine in existence is at the Waterside station of the New York Edison company. It has a capacity of 40,000 horsepower, is 57 feet long, 20 feet across and 14 feet high. Its total weight is 975,000 pounds. It is known as a 30,000 K. W. ten stage high pressure Curtis turbine. It operates at 1,500 revolutions a minute, but is almost soundless.—New York World.

MORE THAN 800 MEN ATTEND REMARKABLE MASS MEETING

High School Auditorium Packed
By Deeply Interested Men
From All Parts of the County and Strong Speeches Are Made
By Well Known Local Men
Who Seek to Keep Saloon Out of the City and County.

One of the most remarkable and enthusiastic public mass meetings of men ever held in the county was that held at the High school auditorium Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, and attended by 800 to 900 men from this city and from every part of the county.

The meeting was in the nature of an uprising of the men in protest against the threatened invasion of Fayette county by the liquor interests, and was strongly indicative of an aroused interest in the city and county to keep Fayette county in the dry columns and vote the saloon out of Ohio.

As the hour of the meeting approached automobiles filled with voters and taxpayers began pouring into the city and wending their way to the High school building.

Perhaps the most imposing spectacle in the arrival and departure of the automobiles, was the Jeffersonville and Jefferson township delegation of some 35 automobile loads which came to the city in a closely formed line.

Local Bible classes marched to the high school building in bodies, and every seat in the auditorium was taken and standing room was virtually all taken, so that the auditorium was packed as never before.

Supt. Wm. McClain presided over the meeting, introducing the various speakers, all of whom were local men, and all of whom spoke as they have never before spoken.

Mr. M. E. Hitchcock, County chairman of the Fayette County Dry Committee, was first called upon and responded with a speech exploding the increased taxation bugaboo by comparative tax statistics in this city and county, showing that taxes had decreased since the saloons were voted out of Washington, and morality had increased and the business men get money instead of promises.

Mr. H. D. Chaffin delivered an eloquent address on the "Product of the Saloon," picturing in pertinent sentences the tragedies which accompany the saloon, "plunging untold numbers into poverty and disgrace; filling graves with victims of the drink habit; filling various institutions with wrecks of humanity, taking the food from the mouths of children; breaking the hearts of mothers and sweethearts and wives and countless other crimes against humanity."

Mr. C. E. Lloyd addressed the men upon the relation of the grain business to the saloon, exploding the old idea that to vote out the breweries would decrease the price of grain. He spoke of the very small portion of grain consumed by the breweries, and said "when the brewery goes, the small per centage of grain it has consumed will be consumed in bread and kindred products by those who are now robbed of such food by the head of the family pouring his money down his throat in the shape of strong drink."

Attorney W. E. Rogers spoke up on the charge made by the brewers that prohibition confiscates property. He denied the charge in toto and by argument after argument proved to the entire satisfaction of his large audience that prohibition does not confiscate property, but on the other hand turned breweries into great factories which produce something to help mankind, and turned other equipment into channels which do not bear the odium of the liquor business. The reason the average man votes wet, he stated, was purely selfishness and not with a proper regard for the best interests of mankind. Mr. Rogers was frequently interrupted by storms of applause, many of his auditors never before looking at the saloon business from the angle discussed by this speaker.

Hon. C. A. Reid also delivered an address during which he was greeted with outbursts of applause. Mr. Reid told, in graphic manner, the way the liquor interests had fooled the people in past years and how they were endeavoring to do the same thing again this year. He urg-

PROTEST ARISES OVER VANDALISM

Considerable vandalism, in the nature of defacing, destroying and removing placards and bulletin boards erected by the Fayette Dry Committee, has been reported in this city during the past few nights, and the police have been asked to keep a lookout for those engaged in the work and place them under arrest.

The practice of defacing and destroying the bulletin boards and replacing them with beer and whiskey bottles is having the opposite effect from that desired by those committing the vandalism and is turning public sentiment more and more against the cause espoused by those engaged in such work.

Views of Others

Editor Herald:—

According to the legal notices now being published in the papers in this city the people of Washington are to vote in November on the proposition of granting or rejecting an extra 2-mill tax levy for five years to furnish the city authorities with more money, and at the same time the people of Washington and Fayette county are asked to decide a similar matter in the county concerning the levy of two mills extra tax for five years for road repair.

Now these two propositions seem insignificant and of little moment, but let's see how they look when footed up.

Take the first one. The tax duplicate in Washington stands at about $8,500,000 in round figures. The tax rate has been increased from 12.70 mills to 13 mills for the coming year—a $3,000 increase. Under this levy the people of Washington will have to fork over in taxes the sum of $110,000. And now comes the city authorities and confess that they cannot meet the expenses of the city without a special assessment of 2 mills more—not for one year, but for five—and they ask the tax payers to vote for the assessment.

That simple, little figure—2 mills—seems like a harmless, almost meaningless numeral in itself but when it is applied to the city tax duplicate of eight and a half millions of dollars its great power is apparent, for it carries an additional burden of $17,000 annually for the taxpayers of Washington to pay.

So much for the first. Now look at the second proposition. It is also demand for 2 mills. Let this carry and so far as Washington is concerned, another additional $17,000 per year will be forced out of the pockets of Washington taxpayers for five years.

In the event that both of these demands are carried at the polls, the city of Washington will be under a 17-mill tax rate and will pay in taxes annually $144,000.00.

The success of the 2-mill road levy will be felt by the people of the county outside of Washington to the tune of $63,000 per year in additional taxes, or $215,000 in five years, the levy being designed to raise at least $80,000 per year in city and county.

Taxpayers of Washington had better wake up pretty suddenly and take after these two propositions with something about as efficient as a four-year-old axe. If these assessments are allowed to succeed at the polls the people will find their taxes jumped up in a single day from 13 to 17 mills, or one third. Just let any individual figure how much he paid this year in tax and add one third more, and he will realize how much these two innocent little 2-mill levies will affect him.

Retrenchment and better management are needed—not an ever increasing tax burden. The people of the county are now contributing over $200,000 annually in taxes—think of it!—and yet this enormous sum of money is not sufficient to meet the expenses and repair work.

Fellow citizens, before you vote to tax yourselves another $100,000 annually—which is practically the sum these two 2-mill levies will raise—consider this thing carefully and demand less extravagance in public affairs and the application of the rules of ordinary business in the conduct of public affairs.

It is currently reported that there is owing to the city about $100,000 in delinquent special assessments for various improvements made within recent years. Why not call upon the city authorities to collect this vast sum instead of "winking" at the flat refusal to pay?

Stop up a few leaks like this and give Washington sufferers a reduced tax rate instead of a higher one.

Swat both 2-mill levies.

ONE WHO WILL

Observers of doings on the diamond are inclining to view reduced rates for patrons as inevitable. Both the major and minor leagues have had reason this season to complain of inadequate patronage of great games. It is said to be evident that the public looks upon prevailing rates as excessive. The patrons rally at old prices on days when two games are presented and also one or two days a week for the best attraction, but the varying attendance seems to indicate dissatisfaction with the admission price. The action of the Federal league in using price reduction as a reprisal in the league war has evidently brought the problem of admission to an acute stage and face to face with an adjustment that cannot be long delayed.

WAKING DREAMS.

A Long Series of Events Can Be Crowded Into a Few Seconds.

It is more than likely that the great majority of dreams belong to the few moments when we are falling off to sleep and the equally brief time we take to wake up. In fact, nothing is more fully established than the fact that an apparently long dream can unfold itself in an infinitesimal space of time.

Alfred Maury relates how he had a long and vivid dream of the reign of terror in France, which included his trial before the revolutionary tribunal and his execution. He actually felt the guillotine fall. Yet that dream from beginning to end was actually caused by the fall of a curtain rod which struck him on the neck and woke him up. The whole lengthy dream lasted really a couple of seconds.

A well known writer in London was sitting up late writing something he much wished to finish. Suddenly some one came into the room and announced that he was called to go to Manchester. He went out and packed his bag and went to that city, where he stayed several days and saw innumerable people. He returned in due course and transacted a lot of business in town and actually contracted for and started a new book.

Yet when he woke with a start and found it was all a dream the ink of the last word he had written was as fresh and needed the blotting paper as much as if it had only just been written. He could not have dozed longer than ten seconds.—Pearson's.

WARNING SOUNDED BY BORAH

United States Must Face Big Industrial Problems.

WOULD PREPARE FOR PEACE

Idaho Senator Foresees a New Europe Industrially When the War Is Over and Fears Uncle Sam Will Have the Fight of His Life to Retain Markets at Home and Abroad.

Text of His Statement.

Washington, Oct. 25.—Senator William E. Borah of Idaho declares this nation should prepare for peace. While the country is calling upon experts to assist in a program for upbuilding the army and navy, Senator Borah would also summon the best brains and experts available to the task of getting ready for the great industrial problems that the country will be called on to face at the end of the war.

The senator from Idaho believes that the tariff laws ought to be readjusted on a broad scale. He would not delay this action a single day beyond the time when adequate data has been obtained. He foresees a new Europe industrially when the war is over and predicts that the United States will be called on to fight as it has never fought before, not only for the markets of the outside world, but to retain its markets at home.

Many members of congress, including some Democrats who have returned to Washington, have been leaning toward this view, but Senator Borah is the first to sound a call for legislation in this direction. The senator from Idaho also predicts that the Republican party in the next national convention will write "the most advanced and liberal platform that it has adopted since 1860." He regards the recent action taken by the party in conservative Massachusetts as indicating what may be expected from the next national convention.

Senator Borah concluded:

"It is probable that the most difficult part of the program of preparedness will be that of the manner of raising the revenue to take care of expenses," said Senator Borah. "We certainly ought not to be called upon to issue bonds. It would be unwise and unjust to do so. It would seem that at a time of peace and when we are enjoying tremendous profits from feeding and arming and financing great armies in Europe, we ought to be able to take care of the expenses of a reasonable program of preparedness without resorting to the selling of bonds."

Germany will emerge from the war the best organized industrial unit in the world. The energy, the capacity, the talents of her people, thoroughly diversified, will yet be mobilized as no nation has ever had the energies of her people mobilized before. The merchants of England understand this perfectly. The manufacturer and the farmer will feel the strain also and this fierce competition in the same way.

"There is another matter which I am not going to discuss, but which is tremendously interesting, and that is this: That the war will have advanced state Socialism in five years more than it has advanced before the war during the last 100 years. The next great political issue in this country is going to be this involving government ownership of public utilities. Regulation, in the minds of many people, has broken down. It is not satisfactory to the public nor to the owner of the property. I expect to see the Republicans write the most advanced and liberal platform in 1916 which that party has written since 1860."

BETTER THAN CALOMEL

Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a Harmless Substitute

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. They are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat his bowel complaints with calomel. His efforts to banish it brought out these little olive-colored tablets.

These pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does, but have no bad after effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids.

It is best not to take calomel, but to let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place. Most headaches come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "loggy" and "heavy." Note how they "clear" clouded bowels and how they "perk up" the spirits. At 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

GERMAN VERSION OF CAVELL CASE

Nurse's Execution, Though Regrettable, Is Held Just.

ACCUSED ADMITTED GUILT

Trial It Is Claimed Disclosed the Fact That the English Woman Was the Principal Agent in a Plot to Enlist Belgians—German Undersecretary For Foreign Affairs Issues Statement On the Case.

Amsterdam, Oct. 25.—The execution of Miss Cavell, the English nurse, is justified in Berlin, according to dispatches from the German capital. One dispatch reads:

"As the foreign press is discussing in an incorrect and exaggerated manner the execution of Edith Cavell for war treason the facts may again be stated.

It was proved after a long trial that the sentenced persons had for some months been engaged in assisting Belgians of military age to enlist in hostile armies and French and English deserters to escape the country. They had many helpers and organized branches. The governor general repeatedly issued warnings that severe punishment of such action was unavoidable. The guilty persons were sentenced in public sittings, according to the law based on the imperial penal code and the military penal code for war treason and espionage.

No special law exists for Belgium. No so-called usage of war influenced the verdict. The accused for the most part admitted guilt and acknowledged that they were aware of the

SHOT BY POSSE

Charleston, W. Va., Oct. 25.—Burke McClure, the merchant who fled from Mann, Logan county, after the murder of his wife and her cousin and the shooting of two other persons, was shot to death at the home of his brother-in-law in Ocean, Wyoming county, by the posse of Sheriff Chatin of that county. McClure refused to surrender.

STRIKE OF OIL

Millersburg, O., Oct. 25.—The Killbuck-Millersburg Gas and Oil company has drilled in a 3,000 foot well on the McDowell farm, between Killbuck and Glenmont. After shooting it rapidly filled and the production is put at twenty-five barrels at the start.

REDUCE SALOONS

Marysville, O., Oct. 25.—The Union county liquor licensing board granted five saloon licenses in Marysville, reducing the number from seven to five. Three licenses were granted to Richwood.

severe penalties they were risking. Edith Cavell was the principal agent in a plot to enlist Belgians. In regard to the assertion that she, in the course of her profession, unselfishly tended other persons, it may be pointed out that she earned her living by nursing, charging fees which were within the means of the rich people only. Women also have been executed in France. For instance, last March, when the German Margaret Schmidt was executed at Nancy, and in May, when the German, Ottile Moss, was put to death at Bourges."

Dr. Alfred F. M. Zimmermann, German under secretary for foreign affairs, also issued an explanation of the recent execution in Belgium of Miss Edith Cavell, the British nurse. He prefaced his remarks by the declaration that he had examined every detail and tittle of the evidence with the greatest care and found the verdict, though regrettable, to be just.

Dr. Zimmermann says: "The result is so convicting and all the circumstances are so clear and convincing that no court martial in the world would have reached any other decision.

For it concerns not the act of one single person, rather it concerns a well-thought-out, world-wide conspiracy which succeeded for nine months to render the most valuable services to the enemy to the disadvantage of our arm. Countless British, Belgian and French soldiers now again are fighting in the allied ranks who owe their escape from Belgium to the activity of the band now sentenced, at the head of which stood Miss Cavell."

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.
Earache.
First aid in cases of earache should never take the form of syringing. Nothing is more common in a case of earache than for a well meaning relative to rush for the syringe and subject the victim to what may happen to be the very worst treatment in the world. If no one does that, some one is almost sure to try dropping oil into the ear. Now, nothing whatever should be put into the ear itself without medical advice. A doctor has the instruments with which to make an examination, and he is the only safe judge as to the proper treatment. In many cases of acute inflammation he will have to puncture the drum before relief can be obtained. In the meantime a great deal can be done toward giving relief by the constant application of heat in the form of a hot water bag or a soft bag filled with hot salt. Sometimes the doctor will order two or three drops of laudanum or hot salt solution to be run gently into the ear, or in a severe case he may think leeches advisable, or he may raise a small blister behind the ear. Some children suffer from a chronic inflammation of the ear, without suppuration, but often associated with adenoid growths in nose and throat. That condition calls for special treatment and the removal of the adenoids, for it is one of the most frequent causes of obstinate deafness.

NOTICE OF ELECTION.
To the Electors of the City of Washington, Fayette county, Ohio.
In pursuance of a resolution passed on the 4th day of October, 1915, by the Council of the City of Washington, Fayette county, and State of Ohio, and filed with this Board on the 8th day of October, 1915, you are hereby notified that on Tuesday the 2nd day of November, 1915, at the usual voting precincts in said City of Washington, Fayette county, Ohio, the question of increasing the tax rate two mills above the maximum rate of taxation authorized by Sections 5649-2 and 5649-3 of the General Code, for the period of five years, for the purpose of meeting the fixed charges and necessary expenses of said City of Washington, will be submitted for your approval or rejection: the form of the ballots cast at such election will be as follows:

"For an additional levy of taxes for the purpose of meeting the fixed charges and necessary expenses of said City of Washington, Fayette County, Ohio, not exceeding two mills, for not to exceed five years. Yes."

"For an additional levy of taxes for the purpose of meeting the fixed charges and necessary expenses of said City of Washington, Fayette County, Ohio, not exceeding five years. No."

By order of the Board of Deputy State Supervisors of Elections, Fayette County, Ohio.

SUSPECT GERMAN OF FOMENTING TROUBLE

GRAND JURY PROBING NOBLEMAN'S DOINGS

Von Rintelen Figuring Conspicuously In the Probe.

New York, Oct. 25.—Franz Von Rintelen, a German nobleman, stands out dramatically in the investigation now being made by a federal grand jury into the activities of German secret agents in this country.

There are two distinct phases of the inquiry. One involves the identity of Von Rintelen—it was learned for the first time Sunday that he is a nobleman—and his varied work while in this country, with the expenditure of several million of dollars. The other deals with the alleged attempt of German secret agents to embroil the United States in a conflict with Mexico.

Information has come to the federal authorities that Von Rintelen arrived in this country last winter carrying with him letters of credit for millions. Since Von Rintelen's departure it has been learned from several sources that during his stay in this country he was at the head of the secret agents working here in the interest of Germany; that he was possessed of almost unlimited funds, and that he sought in many ways to help the Fatherland.

His father is said to be one of the important business men of Germany, possessing a vast fortune and having at least $1,000,000 invested in industries and banking institutions in this city. Young Von Rintelen is said to be an officer in the German army and to have served in important offices in connection with the work of the general staff. He is said to have outranked the German ambassador in the councils of the German government.

Just what work he was supposed to accomplish in this country is part of the investigation now being made by the grand jury. One of the things he sought to do was to swing sentiment against the export of arms and ammunition. It is also said he had a conference with General Huerta.

ward towards Sonora instead of en-training for Juarez, as the other Villa forces did. This is told in a telegram from Mexico City to Carranza Consul Andreas Garcia.

Some of the money which might have gone to European pockets this season undoubtedly rests safe in the stocking some lies scattered along the home mountain and lake trails and more, perhaps, went to the Panama canals. But it stays at home and will keep on working.

Rubbish Heap Treasures.
The St. Vincent de Paul society of Brooklyn, by way of a service to the people, looks over the city's waste to recover articles that have been thrown away unintentionally. Things found last year ranged from a $500 roll of bills and a solid gold watch in an old vest pocket to two healthy specimens of the rubber plant. Bundles of laundry are the most frequent item.

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

Danger in Overweight.
"Laugh and grow fat" is not good advice for the man or woman who is inclined to be heavy. Arthur Hunter, chairman of the central bureau of medico-actuarial mortality investigation and actuary of a big life insurance company, states that there is no doubt that marked overweight has a material effect in decreasing length of life, especially at the middle and older ages.

Among men forty pounds above the average weight the lifetime of those who entered the companies at forty-five was about four years less than that of men of normal weight. The public should understand that marked overweight is a serious handicap to length of life. Diabetes, Bright's disease, heart disease and apoplexy cause a large proportion of the deaths among overweights. While the overeater is not such a bad social influence as the excessive drinker, the former is also shortening his life by lack of moderation. Insurance companies will be glad to give to the public such information needed to overcome incorrect living and methods by which improvements may be made.

"You can—you can. I know it and feel it. The man who can reach Mars and mingle with the people and take notes and bring them back to this world will be a greater man than any king who ever ruled. Money will await him by the cartload."

"And the question with you is how to reach Mars," said Mrs. Bowser. "No, that question has already been settled. I want your consent to go." "Oh, I see. Well, you can take the next train. If you have any other way of going, you may state it."

Mr. Bowser smiled and chuckled and slapped his leg, and it was half a minute before he said:

"The planet Mars is in the sky, isn't it? I have got to try the upward way. Won't an air craft reach it? Ha, ha, ha!"

Mrs. Bowser saw that he had been quite carried away with this scheme, and she got ready to give it a black eye. She therefore asked:

"Is this your idea alone?"

"No, no; an air craft man is with me in it."

"Then he must be a fool. He ought to know that no human being can get above a certain height from the earth without freezing to death. I believe the limit is two miles, while Mars is something like seventy or eighty millions of miles away. After a certain height the air becomes so rarefied that no one could breathe."

"Don't you think we know all this?" asked Mr. Bowser, with a light of victory shining in his eyes. "We not only know it, but we have provided for it. If we have an inclosed air craft and a base burner coal stove, what becomes of the cold? We shall make science take care of the rarefied air, and there you are, Mrs. Bowser—there you are."

"You say it was an air man who suggested this thing to you?"

"It was, my dear—one of the best in the world—and when he found that I had been thinking of the same thing he was tickled half to death. He gives me his word that we can reach Mars in about four days and that no accident whatever is likely to befall us. I am to try it and who finds our claim not true. Mr. Bowser and Mars

He Proposes a Visit to That Planet.

By M. QUAD.

Copyright, 1915, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

Mr. Bowser walked nine times the length of the sitting room, when he paused and said,

"Mrs. Bowser, there may be a gentleman to see me this evening."

"About a hive of bees?" she queried.

"No, ma'am."

"You have bought everything but bees in the last ten years, and I didn't know but what you had got around to them."

Mr. Bowser sat down and kept very quiet for two or three minutes and then said:

"Mrs. Bowser, there is a planet called Mars."

"Yes."

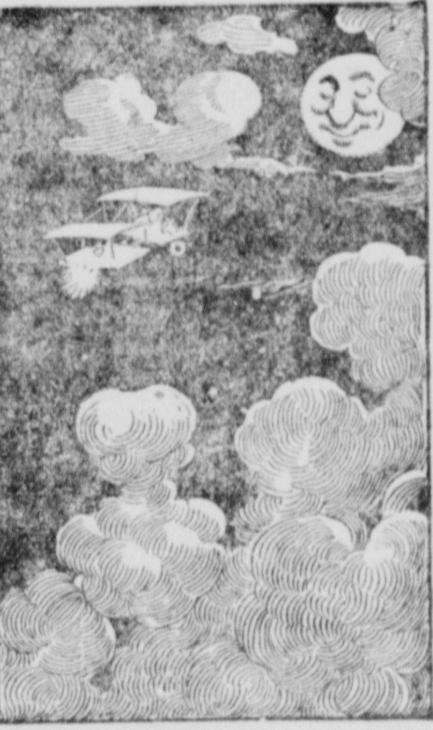

"It had been talked of in the papers ever since you were born, but I didn't know whether you had taken any interest in it or not. Then you have read or heard that it is inhabited?"

"I think I have read something of the sort."

"I congratulate you. It is supposed to be a world just like this, and a great nation dwells there. It has its mountains, rivers and plains. It probably has an ocean or two. It has its birds and beasts. It may have its Wall street, its Rockefeller and Carnegie."

"Why don't you go there?" innocently asked Mrs. Bowser.

"By thunder—by thunder!" exclaimed Mr. Bowser as he brought his fist down on his knees. "I was just about to talk to you on that question. For the last two days I have been thinking strongly of going to Mars."

"WON'T AN AIR CRAFT REACH IT?"

Mrs. Bowser smiled cynically.

"Oh, you think it one of my fads," continued Mr. Bowser as he noticed the smile. "Let me tell you, my dear woman, that I was never so earnest in my life. I want you to be with me in this thing. I want you to encourage me. A dozen times over I have been near fame and fortune, but you have stood in the way. For heaven's sake give me a helping hand this time!"

"If I can I will, of course," was the reply.

"You can—you can. I know it and feel it. The man who can reach Mars and mingle with the people and take notes and bring them back to this world will be a greater man than any king who ever ruled. Money will await him by the cartload."

"And the question with you is how to reach Mars," said Mrs. Bowser.

"No, that question has already been settled. I want your consent to go."

want his name mentioned in the papers. It will be stated that I drove the air craft myself."

"I see," smiled Mrs. Bowser. "The air craft man does all these things for the fun of it."

"No-o, not exactly. One could hardly expect that."

"Then what sum does he want?"

Mr. Bowser choked up, and his Adam's apple danced up and down, and it was some time before his emotions would permit him to say:

"He spoke of $500, but I think I can beat him down a little. Of course, when we get to Mars the inhabitants will be only too glad to put us up at the best hotel free of all expense, and they will give us our coal and provisions for the return trip. Tell me plainly what you think about it."

"I will tell you a little story instead," replied Mrs. Bowser. "Three years ago you gave an air craft man $500 to take you up for a little trip. You were strapped into a seat and away you went. The craft had risen ten feet when you began to yell and scream and shout, and you offered the man a hundred million dollars to descend. He accepted the offer, and when you were unstrapped and once more on the solid earth you handed him 50 cents and started for home. Is it to be the same thing over again?"

Mr. Bowser turned as red as a boiled lobster, but for a wonder he held his temper. When he spoke again there was not a harsh note in his voice. He said in a coaxing way:

"But you see, my dear, all the conditions are different this time. On the previous occasion I was looking for novelty; this time I am looking for Mars and fame and money. It means everything to me. There won't be one scream, even if we have to go a hundred million miles high."

"I have talked with any scientific man about this?" asked Mrs. Bowser.

"Why, the air man is a scientist himself. If he says we can reach Mars you can depend on it that we shall land there in due time. He is coming here this evening to talk the final arrangements over with me. I expect he will ring the bell at any moment. Then I have your consent, my dear?"

"Mr. Bowser," she said very seriously, "let it be understood that if he doesn't ask for any money tonight you have my consent. If he does ask you will give the thing up, knowing that he is a sharper."

"By George, but that is fair!" was the reply as the doorbell rang. "You stick to that, old girl, and Samuel Bowser will be in Mars in less than a fortnight, and he will be relating to the inhabitants thereof the wonders of this world below."

The caller that Mr. Bowser admitted and took to the library would have been spotted by a detective as a confidence man, but he looked to the man who was going to Mars as an honest, upright gentleman who wouldn't even steal candy from a baby. Mrs. Bowser didn't get a look at him and therefore could form no opinion. When the couple had taken seats Mr. Bowser anxiously asked:

"Well, do we go?"

"Does the wife consent?" asked the air man.

"She does with great willingness. She wants me to win the great fame and fortune that await me. So all is about ready, eh?"

"Just a trifle, Mr. Bowser," smiled the man. "What of the money?"

"You said $500, I believe."

"Just $500, and that is dirt cheap for Mars."

"Couldn't take a hundred off, eh?"

"Does the wife consent?" asked the air man.

"She does with great willingness. She wants me to win the great fame and fortune that await me. So all is about ready, eh?"

It might reasonably be supposed that the boy scout movement would be on the decline. The novelty must have worn off by this time, and, properly attended to, the service means hard work. But, either through the force in its own appeal or the stimulus produced by war conditions and stirring talk of home defense, the institution grows in strength and importance in this country. Several universities are training scout masters. There is no disguising the fact that scout service is at the outset in the nature of pure adventure for the average boy who has been tied down to home life. However, when the adventure leads out into new lines of effort and knowledge and by its rigor and discipline stirs the boyish impulse to do as well as the next wild youth is changed into serious young manhood, with a sense of responsibility. The hardship of poverty is a good school. But all are not forced through that. A good substitute for it is the hardship of service voluntarily given and bravely endured.

The middies at Annapolis are finding out that hazing may mean dismissal and disgrace, yet such is the deep seated "cussedness" of a few scamps that bright chance and prospects are sacrificed for a few moments' miscalculated fun.

YOUNG WONDER FROM THE HILLS HURLS SUPERBLY

Local Team Wins From New Holland Bunch By the Close Score of Two to One—Eighteen-Year Old Lad Pitches Better Ball Than Seasoned Leaguer, and Makes Fans Sit Up and Take Notice.

In the presence of quite a formidable gathering of fans, all conditions being taken into consideration, the local ball park defeated the strong New Holland bunch by the score of 2 to 1.

The score is indicative of the high class article of base ball played by both teams. It was a nip and tuck fight from start to finish. As may be presumed from the score the bright particular stars were the two opposing slabmen. The honors in the great pitching duel being conceded to the lad from Bainbridge who twirled for the Athletics.

This youngster, Knisley is his name, is only eighteen years old but the brand of pitching he unpacked with his good right arm yesterday made every base ball fan present sit up pop-eyed with admiration.

Sims, who pitched in the Ohio State League during the past season and who goes to the St. Louis American league team next year, pitched a masterly game but he was at no angle of the game the equal of the youngster from the hills.

If yesterday's sample is of a piece with the general line of pitching merchandise that young Knisley has in his stock then the youngster has a bright future indeed before him in the base ball world.

Corwin for the locals pushed over a home run—a long line fly over the first baseman's head clear into the crowd. That accounted for the first one of the local tallies. The second tally came in the ninth after two were down. Adams, with one down, was safe at first on Reno's error in right. Ross sacrificed him to second and Packard with a clean single over second scored Adams with the tally needed to win the contest.

The visitors made their lone tally in the forth after two men were down.

Underwood laid down an infield single and Doyle poled the sphereoid over the canvas ordinarily good for the circuit, but Jones in center ducked under the canvas, gathered up the ball and fielded it in time to hold Doyle at the third station.

Corwin played a lightning fast game at short field and his phenomenal work was responsible in a measure for the small score.

While Sims for the visitors fanned eight of the local batters, Knisley made seven of the visitors cut slices in the fine October Ozone.

It is half of the urgent demands for new national legislation are considered in the coming session of congress it will be a momentous and possibly a record session. Both houses of congress will be likely to take prompt action upon measures ranging from adequate national defense to the question of strike prevention and credits to farmers. Our merchant marine presents a problem allied with foreign trade. Possibly some tariff revision and very probably a tariff commission will find stout adherents. Among the questions which are certain to present themselves with varying degrees of intensity the export of munitions of war, the Mexican situation, overhauling of the government's financial system and Alaskan development may be named.
